

OUR NEW DRESS.—With a view to a proper understanding with the public, this department wishes to state that it is not proud if it is rich and prosperous. An individual may attire himself in a new suit of clothes, and it does not necessarily follow that he should be "stuck up." We shall continue to remain on respectful terms of intimacy with "poorer people in plainer clothes," provided, of course, they be of good family. If we see any hand-some newspapers than the Daily Intelligencer, we'll mention it.

KILLED ON THE RAILROAD.—A man named William Burgess, was killed on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad, at Steubenville, on Wednesday night. He had been loafing around the depot during the day, drinking a good deal. When the train arrived, Burgess saw a friend in one of the cars, to whom he stood talking and holding on to the window of the car. When the train began to move down, he walked backward, talking to his friend before, but lost his balance, falling back on the platform, and rolling over a few times. Thence he fell into the narrow space between the platform and the cars, and was struck by the truck frame, and carried a distance of four or five cross-ties, after which the cars got clear of him and passed on. His injuries were chiefly about the head and breast. The deceased was formerly employed in the Steubenville Rolling Mill.

IMMERSION.—Down in Jackson Co., in this State, the beaux go to parties on horseback and take the girls home behind them. A gentleman just arrived from Rainswood, on the Ohio river, attended a country dancing down there last week. Mr. Jerome Proctor was seeing his sweet Sally home after the fashion stated. Sandy creek had assumed the proportions of a "raging canal," but Sandy creek had to be forced. Jerome dashed into the swollen stream and when about half way across, the young woman slid down the horse's tail and was washed down by the rushing waters. Jerome, like a true and gallant hero, followed suit, and in doing so followed Sally, whose body he overtook, and holding on to the hair of her head and flinging his legs with a frog-like fling, he dragged her fair form dripping and insensible to the shore. It was a bold act, for which he was amply rewarded in the gratitude of Sally and her friends.

THE SHALE COAL OIL.—Some time ago, a large body of Shale Coal—some five thousand acres—was discovered lying along McGraw's Run in this county, not far from West Alexander. Some of the coal was sent on to New York to be tested and was found to yield abundantly of the very best oil. A large proportion of the oil and land is now owned by Mr. Hanlan, of Richwood, and others. A New York capitalist has agreed to put up the machinery for the manufacture of the oil and is to have half the proceeds. Already an establishment is in operation on the ground and considerable quantities of oil are being turned out. It is said to be far superior to the Canal Coal. As speedily as possible, machinery will be put up capable of turning out from one to two thousand gallons per day.

A COLLISION occurred on Thursday morning on the track of the P. Ft. W. & C. Railroad at Sewickley between two freight trains. The freight of the P. Ft. W. & C. R. R. coming west, ran into a freight of the P. & C. road going east, and which had stopped at the station to wood and water. Three of the cars of the P. Ft. W. & C. train were thrown off the track and damaged so that they will require extensive repairs before being capable of service. The engines were stove up considerably—that of the P. & C. particularly. A freight car of the latter company was smashed to atoms. No one was injured.

"HE WILL GIVE TEN THOUSAND."—Will W. J. Marks, and agree to sustain his present reputation as a practical workman, and keep as good a stock of all kinds of jewelry as can be found in the city, in consideration of a fair share of public patronage. His place of business is made prominent by a golden eagle suspended over his door, similar to the bird which keeps company with his advertisement in this morning's paper.

YESTERDAY.—A melancholy day was yesterday. The leaden clouds that overhung above us contrasted sadly with the beautiful Indian summer days we have had for the past week. The fine autumn weather is fast leaving us, and the robe of russet hue in which nature is arrayed will soon be exchanged for a frosty mantle of snow. Yesterday's change may be the beginning of what the weather wise predict is in store for us the coming winter. Let us prepare for the worst.

EYES RIGOR.—We learn that a peremptory notice has been posted by the local captain, "throughout the Ritchietown Militia District, ordering 'every person over the age of twenty-one years' to turn out for parade to-day at 10 o'clock, or suffer the penalties prescribed by law. A Grand display may be expected, provided the people turn out. Plenty of corn stalks are on hand.

AN OLD HOSS.—Mr. Joel Tilton, of Tiltonsville, about seven miles above this city, on the Ohio, recently buried a horse thirty-three years of age. He (the horse) scampered through the streets of this city thirty years ago, and was acquainted with many of the old settlers. He was interred with all the solemnity due to his remarkable age and distinguished services.

RECOVERED.—A stranger crossed the Wellsburg Ferry, the other day, closely pursued by the proprietor of the Mansion House, Washington, Pa., to arrest him on charge of theft. He succeeded in overhauling him at Hopedale, Jefferson county and recovered the property—the man escaped.

THE NEW BRIDGE.—Mr. McComas has already commenced swinging up the timbers of the new bridge, from which an idea is gained of the sort of structure will be when completed. So many people loiter about the work, that the workmen are interfered with.

THE RIVER continues stationary with only three feet water in the channel. For several days the clouds have portended rain at times, but as yet we have had nothing but a sprinkle.

The rivers everywhere are so low and full of snags that but little movement is manifested among the boats. The necessity of the case has brought out a new dredging boat, just built at Madison. She has been put on trial at a bar, near Madison, and it is said that she cut a channel through the lower part of the bar, 32 feet wide, with ease. The new dredge has two large screws in front, which are constructed to throw the sand from the channel which it makes.

We understand that Mr. Bishop, the owner and inventor, will undertake to keep the Ohio navigable, for large class steamers, all the year, for a small compensation. On the last downward trip of the Key West, a deck-hand named Jim. Hilderman, while shifting freight, accidentally fell overboard from the starboard guard above Gallopis, and was drowned. He resides at Pomeroy.

NEW BEDFORD, Jan. 12, 1849.
GENTLEMEN:—The invaluable medicine which I received from you, called Mrs. M. Hoarhound's Balsam of Liverwort and Hoarhound, has been an immeasurable blessing to me and my family. I used it in my own case, which was despaired of, and am now happily restored to health. In a case of obstinate cough its soothing influence has affected a radical cure; and I beg, if my name or my exertions can aid you in disseminating it among those threatened with, or already in Consumption, that you will allow me, what would seem my duty, to say a few words in its praise. I remain, gentlemen, with great respect,
Your obedient servant,
T. D. WILLIAMS.
